

New president, wife here March 22 for crowded social week

The university's new president and his wife will be in town the week of March 2—and the pair will be kept busy.

Both civic and university groups will see that Dr. and Mrs. Philip Ball do not want for entertainment.

A faculty tea, Monday, March 22, starts the ball rolling.

The tea is being given by President Haynes in honor of Dr. Ball. Roderic Crane heads the tea planning committee of Dr. Nell Ward, Dr. Wilfred Payne and Dr. James Earl.

A Dean of Student's tea will follow on Tuesday.

Friday of the same week Dr. and Mrs. Ball will be honored at a Chamber of Commerce Public Affairs Luncheon.

The Chamber Friday received word from Dr. Ball that he and his wife would attend.

At student's tea

The public affairs luncheons serve as civic receptions for individuals stepping into prominent positions in the city.

Students will get their first glimpse of Dr. and Mrs. Ball at the Dean of Student's tea to be held from 3-5 p. m. in the Faculty Clubroom.

Executive officers of all campus organizations and the faculty advisors of those groups will be at the tea.

Dean Lucas, who is in charge of the affair, said that the tea will give students a chance to meet the new president and his wife.

Marines recruit at OU for reserves

US Marine Corps Recruiting Officer Captain Richard F. Dyer visited the school March 2 and 3. He declared, "I will not know the number of men seeking commissions until a month from now when physical examinations will be given." A Navy doctor and Marine medical corpsmen will give the examinations. "Eight enlistments or more are our goal here at the university," added Captain Dyer.

No previous military experience is required of freshmen and sophomores, but they must attend two 6-week summer courses. Juniors with a year of military experience can qualify by taking the advanced session. Students taking the first session are given the rank of corporal with pay of $90 a month. When taking the advanced course, men are raised to the rank of sergeant with a base pay of $100 per month.

Summer training courses are held at the Marine Corps School located at Quantico, Va.

Upon completion of the training and graduation from college, students become platoon leaders and are eligible for appointment to the commissioned ranks as second lieutenants, US Marine Corps Reserve.

Failure to replace part causes Wednesday issue

The Riha Printing Company is doing the Gateway again this week. This necessitates a Wednesday release. A replacement for the broken part in the Unionist press, where the Gateway is regularly printed, has not been received as yet.

Funds approved . . .

The Gateway can again be eight pages in length. The Student Council and the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs have approved $550 from the Contingency Fund for this purpose. The money is to be used only for the remainder of this school year.

The bill was signed by President Haynes, Dean Lucas and Finance Secretary Hoff.

The action did not come soon enough, however, for this week's paper.

Lounge lizards may get a monitor and newest periodicals

The Student Lounge may be converted to a combination reading room and lounge with a library monitor.

That change will be made if the Student Council passes a recommendation presented at its Feb. 26 meeting.

No action yet has been taken on that suggestion.

If the proposal were put into effect, the monitor would be hired to keep conversations in the lounge low and reading tables would be installed. Current magazines and newspapers would be made available to persons using the lounge.

This room also could be used for organization meetings after regular hours when it would be closed to the students.

Under these conditions, the lounge would be open from 8:30 to 4:30, on week days and from 8:30 to 12:30 on Saturdays.

The recommendation suggested that two double doors be placed at the east and west entrances and that the middle opening be blocked off. The cost for these renovations would be approximately $1,000.

All-school spring dance Friday

Player committees back 'Blithe Spirit'

With the spring production "Blithe Spirit" two weeks away, the behind the scenes' committees of props, costumes, makeup, publicity, stage crew and advertising are in full swing.

The set construction of a well to do English country house will again be handled by Oscar Beasley and Sherman Lower, who have worked on University Player's previous stage sets. Bob Barritt will be the scenic artist.

The prop committee has a big job on its hands in finding furniture that can be broken easily, for there is one scene when both Condorine's wives, in the form of spirits, break everything they can possibly lift. Heading this phase of the play is Rita Kersigo with Chuck Farnham, Bob Kistler, Beverly Pesson, Carolyn Ashby, Gloria Pheney, Art Gaeth and Marilee Steinman assisting her.

Makeup also problem

Makeup will also be a difficult job in this play, because all the characters are over 30 years old. Even though exams have just been completed, the expression of the characters' faces need added darkening. Peggy Hayes heads the makeup group for the second year, and working with her are Anne Connely, Janice Gragson, Harry Langdon, Rita Jorgensen and Lois Melchior.

"Blithe Spirit" is the type of play in which costume can be used whether it was given ten years ago or ten years in the future. But no play is without problems in costuming each player. In charge of the costume committee is Betty Blissard working with Jo Bower and Dorothy Hayes.

Dean of Students Office doubles as OU post-office

The Dean of Student's Office is in the mail business.

Besieged by student queries on where organizations could pick up their mail, the dean's office decided that a box in their office would fill the bill.

So far there are pigeon holes for the Student Council, Interfraternity and Interfraternity Councils and a slot for general delivery.

Ormsby Harry, assistant to the dean of students, said Friday that representatives of fraternities, sororities and independent groups can pick up their organization's mail in the general delivery section.

Mr. Harry suggested that each group assign someone to check the box every day.

"Students expecting mail addressed to the university can also expect to find it in that box," Mr. Harry added.

Men's national frat set for university

Not to be outdone, a men's national scholastic fraternity will soon appear at the university.

A similar women's group was installed Feb. 27. It was the first national scholastic organization on the campus.

For freshmen men, Phi Lambda Sigma will be the local chapter of Phi Eta Sigma.

Membership in the fraternity is open to students who have attained a scholastic average of 3.5 during the first semester of their freshman year, or to those who have that average for the entire year.

Formals for women; optional male dress

Dance will be council's fifth and last this year

With spring fever less than two weeks away, the Student Council will hold the all-school Spring Formal Friday at Peony Park.

The dance actually will be semi-formal—formals for the women and either tuxedos or dark suits for the men. The title, Spring Formal, is traditional.

Admission to the dance is one activity card per person or an 80 cent ticket and an activity card per couple. Tickets may be purchased at the door Friday night or at the business office this week. An activity card must be presented with the purchase of each ticket.

Delores Prather, chairman of the dance committee, said, "We are holding the Spring Formal at this time because we were unable to obtain Peony at a later date. Last year the dance was April 18. Since this is going to be the last all-school formal this year, we hope there will be a large turnout," Prather said. Pat Flood is assistant chairman.

The dance, the fifth sponsored by the council this year, will last from 9 until midnight. Eddy Haddad's orchestra will furnish the music.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Cardwell, Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Henry, Dr. and Mrs. L. O. Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. R. Wayne Wilson will be the faculty sponsors.

Omaha Steel given Fieldhouse contract

Omaha Steel has been awarded the steel contract for the first unit of the new Fieldhouse. Their bid of $78,535 was low.

University architects have been advised to draw up a contract with Omaha Steel on a basis of their bid. The order came from Herbert Marshall, chairman of the Board of Regent's Finance Committee; B. J. Skutt, chairman of the regent's Building and Grounds Committee and Frank Heinisch, chairman of the regent's Athletic Committee.

According to the bid, steel is to be delivered by Nov. 1, 1948. The steel work is to be completed by Dec. 11.

All other contracts are to be let after the steel arrives.

George Fielding Eliot to be here next Wednesday

George Fielding Eliot, outstanding authority on American foreign policy, will discuss "Will We Have to Fight Russia," at 8 p. m. convocation March 17.

Just returned from a tour of central and eastern Europe, Major Eliot studied the Russian situation in England, the Netherlands, Austria and occupied zones of Germany.

The speaker has defined the aim of the American foreign policy as "the will to establish a just and lasting peace." He has pointed out that the American people can secure their own liberties only in a peaceful and a happy world.

Dr. John A. Decker points to the far east in explaining some of the difficulties of the American foreign policy there. (Story on page 2.)

What's the Big Idea . . .

"Once, every blue moon, in a lost village back of nowhere, a hermit, leaves his cave, walks to the corner gas station and asks in a querulous voice . . .

What's the Big Idea?

He then walks back to his cave and waits for another blue moon."

—Saturday Letters, Kent State University.

All of us get ripping mad at times. We don't like the other fellow's attitude, or we don't like the way things are run. So, once in a blue moon, we come out of our caves and demand . . .

"What's the Big Idea?"

Not because we really care, but because we're mad.

This being the blue moon of election year, we will become increasingly suspicious and resentful of political maneuverings. We will wonder about our respective party's choice of candidates and their particular stands on domestic and international issues. And then, without waiting for the answer, most of us will go back to our caves until another blue moon.

Unless we're complete political dolts, some of us ought to be curious enough to stick around awhile and find out what the Big Idea is. After all, our caves aren't in a lost village back of nowhere. Election year will affect us seriously. We can't escape, like the hermit.

For the purpose of finding out the Big Idea, some particularly active group in the university should do its utmost to create a vigorous political interest about the school.

Two things might be done . . .

First, an all-school political convention could be held in the early part of May.

Second, political discussions on various issues and candidates could be sponsored in the same manner as the Coffee Hour projects.

Naturally, both ideas must be sanctioned by the Student Council and the Faculty Committee.

The convention should be thoroughly organized. It can't be a half-baked affair. It should be patterned after the primary convention of either major political party. The necessary committees should be appointed in the near future to assure the smooth functioning of the program.

As a suggestion, each social, professional and athletic group on the campus could be authorized to have a number of delegates in proportion to their membership. These delegates could be elected by the respective groups to represent them at the convention.

On the convention floor, business could be carried out in the accepted fashion. National candidates and issues could be discussed, and an eventual endorsement of candidates and policies could be reached.

The Gateway is willing to work, hand in hand, with any organization who would be willing to sponsor an affair like this.

It is its sincere belief that the students would not only become more informed on political philosophies, but from participation in actual political practice, they would finally know more about the . . .

"Big Idea!"

From Dr. Bail . . .

OU's new president is looking forward to his new job as a challenge. In a recent letter from Dr. Philip Milo Bail to the Gateway, the university head explained that in taking over the educational program at Omaha U he faces a "real challenge."

Dr. Bail describes the intended program as one which will "provide each individual the opportunity to attain a relatively high degree of competency in the basic areas of human knowledge and experience as a foundation upon which to build an adequate and effective degree of attainment in his major field of specialization." Explaining what he believed a modern university should be, Dr. Bail said, "The university of today should afford the student an opportunity to develop to the maximum whatever potentialities, aptitudes and abilities he may possess."

Dr. Bail's present duties are at Butler University in Indianapolis, Ind., where he is Dean of the College of Education and Director of the Division of General Education. He will assume his new duties at the University of Omaha July 1.

Bail, Haynes, Hoff talk budget plans

Meeting in Indianapolis

Dr. Philip M. Bail, Omaha University's next president, discussed budget plans with Charles Hoff, finance secretary, and President Rowland C. Haynes in Indianapolis last week.

Mr. Hoff, who went to Atlantic City, N. J., and Washington, D. C., on university business, stopped in Indianapolis on his return trip in order to meet Dr. Bail and President Haynes.

While in Atlantic City, he attended a meeting of the National Schoolboard Association. This was held in conjunction with a convention of the American Association of School Administrators.

About 12 thousand people attended the convention where Mr. Hoff was elected to the board of directors of the association, and placed on a special finance committee.

Sees equipment

"At the convention they had the biggest array of school equipment and teaching aids I have ever seen brought together. There was everything from plumbing to the very latest in audio-visual items," Mr. Hoff stated.

From Atlantic City, the finance secretary went to Washington where he met with the Veterans Administration, the American Council on Education, and the War Assets Administration.

Talks with Embassy

He also went to the British Embassy to discuss possibilities of a teacher exchange program between Nebraska and England with Educational Officer Dr. Mervyn Pritchard.

Returning from Washington, he met President Haynes in Indianapolis and together they went to Butler University where Dr. Bail is Dean of the education college and director of the general college. The general college, Mr. Hoff explained, includes all first and second year students.

Mr. Hoff declared that he was impressed with the similarity between Omaha U and Butler.

Prof-files

Away from phrasing principles and brief forms of Gregg, Miss Leta Holley, instructor in Commercial Arts, paused long enough to tell a few highlights of her life.

She began her college life with a history major but abandoned it for a commercial course. She hadn't had shorthand or typing in high school, so she switched for the novelty.

Miss Holley likes teaching commerce because of its objectiveness and definiteness.

For relaxation she likes to take time out for an occasional play or movie, or do some knitting or other needle work. And between stacks of spring and fall papers, she enjoys traveling in the mountains.

When asked what she likes most about the mountains, she reminisced a bit and recalled the time she went trout fishing. "I

Last IWA group hears about far east

"Peace in the world today is possible only when Russia and the US attain a peaceful understanding in the far east," Dr. John A. Decker stated in his address to the Institute of World Affairs, Wednesday evening in the Auditorium.

Dr. Decker is professor of International Relations and chairman of the Social Studies Division at Stephens College.

"Our destiny lies in Asia, and not in Europe as is the common belief today. Alaska, Hawaii, Samoa and the Philippines make up our Pacific empire.

"The far east is our most important source of tin, rubber and other strategic materials. It is also the world's largest potential market," stated Mr. Decker. "Therefore, it is necessary that we have far flung naval bases to protect these American interests," he continued.

Russia is competitor

American foreign policy in the far east is based upon the important fact that China shall remain independent which is definitely stated in our "open door" policy, said the Stephens College professor. "Our main competitor in this field is Russia who is trying to oust the Chiang government and institute a communist regime.

"Russia has terrific propaganda appeal to all of the asiatic people. This propaganda appeal is based on the tremendous industrial and cultural development which Russia has carried on inside Europe," he explained.

Dr. Decker called Europe the most booming place in the world.

The strong contrast between the position of Asiatic peoples in Siberia and those in China is what lends effectiveness to Russian propaganda.

"Because of the balance of forces in the present civil war in China, it seems that there can be no compromise or treaty," Decker said.

The Decker plan

Continuing, Dr. Decker said that what is most important is a unified China based upon traditional Chinese compromise. The policy he would suggest is that which Secretary of State Marshall proposed during his 13-month stay in China—withholding aid from Chiang Kai-shek until such time as Chiang broadens his government by the inclusion of democratic elements.

"Because of the corruption in the present nationalist regime in China, liberal groups are being driven to the communist position," he explained. He also said that such a compromise government would serve the best interests of China, the United States and Russia.

US shares blame

"A really strong United Nations is the only hope for world peace," Dr. Decker continued. He pointed out that the US as well as Russia is responsible for the weak position of the UN today, and whether we have a strong or weak UN depends on what the people in the "grass roots" want.

Concluding his talk, Dr. Decker made an appeal for the kind of world in which his 12 year old son could live long enough to have a few grey hairs.

Strictly from students . . .

Men will welcome "beaver" cries

The university's male population is in favor of letting its hair down—around the face, that is.

Most of the men students polled last week thought that a beard-growing contest should be included in the Ma-le Day festivities.

But many of the girls are not so worked up over the idea.

Question of the week: What do you think of the beard growing contest for Ma-le Day?

Joe Dymak: In one respect, it will save money but it makes a guy look old and haggard.

Gordon Briggs: It would add something to the school spirit that is lacking right now.

Gaylord L. Jensen: If people get a kick out of it, I guess it's all-right.

Jeanne Haney: I don't like it at all. I think it's perfectly stupid.

Bob Mercurio: I think it's the best thing that's hit the school in a long time. Its purpose is to create school spirit.

Nancy Anthony: They make me itch just to look at them.

Phyllis Clark: I think it's wonderful. It relieves the monotony of barren faces.

Charles Mancuso: Fine, they should have started a long time ago. Just so my girl doesn't make caught three fish," she said, smiling.

Miss Holley received her Bachelor of Science degree from Central Missouri State College and her Master of Science in Commerce from the University of Denver. She also has a diploma from the Anthony Wayne Business College.

After teaching the 5th and 6th grades in the public school in Warsaw, Missouri, for a number of years, she became a high school teacher for five years in Higgensville, Missouri. Miss Holley taught five years in Central (Methodist) College in Fayette, Missouri, before coming to Omaha U.

After her second year at OU, she says, "I do enjoy working at the University of Omaha, and I am looking forward to seeing the new buildings. I think the school has a great future."

me shave it off, it's been my ambition since I was a kid.

Jo Ann Moulton: I think it's an awful idea!

Harlan Scheldt: It should prove embarrassing for some of the younger students.

Jeanne Kynette: I take it the men won't have many dates from now on.

Sam Turitz: It looks like the boys have a "hairy" future ahead of them.

Lois Spellman: I think it's horrible.

Conrad Bader: I'm all for it.

Bill Browiak: Men can prove they are men when the contest rolls around.

Lester Scheneman: It would be a good excuse for wearing a beard.

Sharlyn Mann: It's fine as long as my boyfriend doesn't wear one.

Sears Nelson: It doesn't bother me.

Clifton Westlin: It would really be something if the girls would do it.

Lee Knight: I think it's a fine idea.

Dick Mayne: It would be interesting to see who can and who can't wear them.

Alberta Ziegler: I think it's a wonderful idea. Most of the boys will think they are back in the jungle and that should make them happy.

Tech Institute offers

a management course

OU's Division of Technical Institute has added two new courses to its curriculum—one in hospital management and one in office management.

The nine week hospital management class began last Wednesday evening under the instruction of James Carr of the Nebraska Hospital Medical staff. Guest lecturers will be Dean Harold C. Lueth of the Nebraska Medical College, and specialists from other Omaha hospitals.

The new office management course will begin March 17. Designed for executives, the instructors will be furnished by the Omaha Office Managers Association.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

SCHOLAR SKETCH

"If you see me walking around with a blank look on my face," Gail Phenev remarked, "I'm probably looking for my sister—unless, of course, I'm just walking around with a blank look on my face."

Gail explained that she and her sister, who also attends Omaha U., enjoy doing things together. Last summer while employed as waitresses at Broadmoor Hotel in Colorado Springs, they worked the same station and split tips.

"Hardest part of the job," she commented, "was being nice to temperamental cooks and people. If the cooks got mad at you, then you were finished. And as for temperamental people, one man made me take back a cantaloupe because he thought a busboy had breathed on it."

Working at Broadmoor was for purely commercial purposes with Gail. She intends to do it again this summer, because as she puts it, "A lousy job, but the money—". Last year's Broadmoor earnings are supporting a Buick this winter. The Buick, Gail explained, is a 1930 model. "We got it three years ago and resurrected it. It doesn't give us any trouble—it's a good car."

"The only difficulty," she continued, "is that both my sister and I want to drive it in the morning. My littlest sister, however, maintains a completely independent attitude. She has a horse."

The Buick has become a vital part of Gail's life. It's used mainly for driving to and from school because she lives in Keystone Park—outside the city limits where transportation is a rare phenomenon which occurs in the mornings and evenings, and only once an hour at those times.

In her carefree days, before she

Miss Harvey tells of December rite

The marriage of Miss Beulah Harvey, sociology instructor, to Claude D. Ledford Dec. 26, 1947, has recently been announced.

She was the guest of honor at a dinner and shower given by women faculty members Monday, March 1, in the Faculty Clubroom.

Mrs. Ledford plans to join her husband in June in Sacramento, Cal., where they will make their home.

Tuxedos to bring out that 'new smell'

A strange odor will pervade Peony Park at the All-School Spring Formal Friday night. The "new Spring smell" will be mothballs, as father's tux goes into active duty again.

In addition to the aesthetic value, corsages will serve as defense mechanisms, counter-acting the naphthalene-scented males.

Men who don't wear tuxes are advised to don conservative dark suits.

Honors' Convo moved back

The Honors' Convocation has been postponed from March 16 to April 13 at 8 p. m. Dr. Ralph Wardle, head of the English Department, explained that since Major George Fielding Elliot is appearing on the evening of March 17, it would be wise to postpone the Honors' affair until April 13.

"We would be crowding our luck with two evening convocations in a row," Dr. Wardle added.

had the responsibility of a Buick to support, Gail worked at the alcohol plant for one summer.

My friends always make remarks about it, but the only liquid I had anything to do with on that job was gasoline. I was a sort of chauffeur and drove the office force to and from lunch," she explained.

Another of Gail's summer jobs was working as private secretary to Dean W. H. Thompson. She has also been employed in the psychology department on a half-time basis for over two years. There she tests children, and does clerical work and odd jobs.

After graduating in June with a major in psychology, she intends to do graduate work in clinical psychology and counseling. "You can get such interesting part time jobs while doing graduate work," she explained.

Finding time for school activities presents no problem for Gail. Her solution is simply, "I don't sleep much."

Her activities have included being a humanities fellow, and picture editor of the Gateway. She has also been president of Pi Omega Pi and the English fraternity, Sigma Tau Delta.

"But that was all last year," Gail happily sighed. "This year all I do is breathe."

Dr. Lane at Parent Education Institute

The annual Parent Education Institute at the university last night heard one of the leaders in the child development field speak on "A Good Community Cares for Its Children."

Dr. Howard Lane spoke to the Institute, which is sponsored jointly by the university, the local PTA council and the Adult Education Department of the Public Schools.

Dr. Lane will wind up his two-day stay in the city with talks in the Brandeis Store Auditorium on the tenth floor.

Dr. Lane's experience in the child development field includes time spent on the staffs of Northwestern and Wayne Universities. While at the latter school he served as psychologist for the Detroit Police Department.

He is now teaching child development at New York University.

Mr. Pettit is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Pettit.

Miss Willard attended the University of Omaha and was affiliated with Pi Omega Pi sorority.

Mr. Pettit also attended the university.

Hosman's usher course featured in magazine

Among the "Interesting People" featured in this month's American magazine, is E. M. Hosman, director of the School of Adult Education.

A large photograph taken by Hans Knoff, New York photographer, shows Mr. Hosman watching an usher seat a church-goer in the correct manner.

The story features the usher course started here by Mr. Hosman four years ago. It explains that ushers from 40 states and several foreign countries are enrolled in the correspondence course.

The picture was taken in Minnesota last summer.

South of the border study centers will be offered to students by Houston U

Veterans Administration will pay tuition for GI's

The magic of Latin America will be unfolded before the eyes of students, graduates and faculty members from colleges all over the US who enroll in the University of Houston International Study Centers this summer.

"These study centers which include Cuba, Mexico and Guatemala, are designed to acquaint the students with the social, cultural and historical aspects of Latin-America countries," explained Dr. Joseph S. Werlin, director of the centers at Houston University.

There will be two centers, one in Cuba from June 7 to July 8 and one in Mexico and Guatemala from July 19 to August 23. The Cuban center will cost $275 while the Mexico and Guatemala center will cost $340. These figures include traveling and living costs but exclude tuition. The tuition is based on the subjects taken.

"These study centers are recognized by the Veterans' Administration and veterans are exempt from tuition and receive their usual subsistence allowance," said Dr. Werlin. Enrollment is arranged through a letter of eligibility from the local Veterans Administrative office of the student.

Full college credit will be given for the courses taken during these summer studies.

Elementary and advanced Spanish and "Contemporary Civilization of Cuba" will be offered in the Cuba center. Courses dealing with the development of Mexico and Guatemala will be given in the Mexico-Guatemala center. All courses are taught in English and are open to all departments and levels, both undergraduate and graduate.

Those wishing to enroll in either program should do so as soon as possible to assure reservations. Students enrolling in the Cuba center will leave Houston June 7 and will return in the middle of July.

The combined Mexico-Guatemala center will begin July 19 and end August 23. "This will make it possible for a person to attend both centers, if he wishes," explained Dr. Werlin.

Further information may be obtained by writing to Doctor Werlin at the University of Houston, 3801 St. Bernard Street, Houston, Texas.

Debaters take five top honors in Midwest meet

University debaters picked up three superior and two excellent ratings in the annual Midwest Debate Tournament at Nebraska University, Feb. 27-28.

Debaters from more than 40 universities took part in the tourney.

Sophomore Bob Neujahr sparked the Indian debaters, picking up one of three superior ratings given in radio-newscasting and another superior in discussion.

Freshman John Madden took the other superior in oratory.

Two teams accounted for the excellent ratings.

Madden and Gene Step gained one and Eileen Wolfe and Marjorie Mahoney, the other.

Fifteen games listed on baseball schedule

Outlook bright with all letter men back

Many rookies promising

The first of four spring sports schedules—a 15-game baseball slate—was released yesterday by Athletic Director Virg Yelkin.

One more game will probably be added before the April 13 opener against Morningside at Sioux City.

All 15 letter men are returning for action under Coach Yelkin. But they will have to hustle to stay on the squad.

Several newcomers will undoubtedly make the first team. Seventy-two men have signed the baseball roster. Yelkin is holding Monday, Wednesday and Friday workouts in the Quonset Hut from 4 to 6 in the afternoon.

The Indians meet Creighton April 20 and May 11. The trophy signifying the college baseball championship of the city will be at stake.

Play at Legion Park

Creighton holds the trophy, which was first awarded last year, as a result of their two victories over Omaha U.

The trophy is awarded by the Boys Town-Greater Omaha Round Table. Both Yelkin and Duce Belford, last year's Creighton baseball coach, are executive officers in the group.

The Indians will have three games under their belt before they tackle Creighton. The second Bluejay-Indian tiff is slated for Council Bluffs Legion Park.

The season ends May 21 and 22 as Washburn of Topeka, Kans., pays a two-day visit. Omaha will be in Topeka for a two-game series May 7 and 8.

Gateway to start series

Four seven-inning games (two double headers) are slated with Western Union, two at Le Mars, Ia., and two in Omaha.

Baseball Schedule

April
13—Morningside at Sioux City.
16—Western Union at Le Mars, Ia. (double header)
20—Creighton.
23—South Dakota at Vermillion.
24—Buena Vista at Storm Lake, Ia.
30—Buena Vista.
May
4—Western Union (double header).
7—Washburn at Topeka, Kans.
8—Washburn at Topeka.
11—At Creighton.
14—Morningside.
21—Washburn.
22—Washburn.

South Dakota State will play host at Vermillion, April 23. The Indians will also meet Buena Vista (Storm Lake, Ia.) twice.

Next week the Gateway will start a series discussing the baseball prospects.

Adwers, gang waiting

Yelkin expects to carry from 15 to 20 men. He may inaugurate a schedule-less B team, with chances for advancement to the varsity during the season.

The new diamond on the hill west of school will be completed as soon as Building and Grounds Superintendent Jack Adwers and his gang can get to it.

A new ninety foot backstop has been erected. Two portable backstops are also available.

Yelkin said bleachers will probably be placed around the field.

The Indians will play their home games either there or at Fontenelle Park again.

Harveys jar Indian ice entry for crown

Harveys swept right past Omaha's under-manned Ice Indians and into the OAHU championship last Wednesday night.

It was a third period spurt that ruined the Omahans and sped the Harveys to their second league crown in as many years.

The Indians wind up regular season play tonight against Russells in the second game, after Harveys and Haines tangle in the opener at 8 o'clock.

After the dismal showing over the regular route, the Indians will aim for the playoffs, which get underway after the completion of the regular schedule.

Going into the final stanza it was all tied up at 3-3.

Then Russ Sorenson took over the Harvey scoring department and banged home three big goals while the Indians got none.

But for the first two periods, the Omaha entry, which had only three spares, had matched points with the Harveys.

Omaha's first goal came at 13:23 of the first frame on Bob Young's solo. And at 10:02 of the second period, Lynn Miller cashed in on an assist from Al Townsend.

The final marker for the Indians was at 12:25 of the second when Pat Wilcox slammed in Miller's pass.

Townsend received a nasty nine-stitch cut over his left eye during the third period. The puck glanced off Miller's stick and into Townsend's face.

South holds 3 game pin lead; last week's matches postponed

Intramural Bowling Standings

Central	5	28	.152

Yesterday's Schedule

North	vs. South
Tech	vs. Benson
Outstate	vs. Alpha Sigs
Phi Sigs	vs. Central

Intramural Bowling League festivities were postponed last week at the 40-Bowl, but action was resumed yesterday—and league-leading South were on the spot.

The once handsome eight game lead the Packers sported three weeks ago is the only thing holding the South Siders in the top position.

Benson clipped the Packers three straight three weeks ago, and two weeks ago it was the underdog Phi Sigs who repeated the 3-0 trimming.

The Packers' lead has dwindled to three games over second place Benson.

South will attempt to come out of its quandry against North in this afternoon's feature. Tech and Benson clash in another crucial test.

Bunnies can tie South

If South again loses three straight while Benson cops three, it would pull the Bunnies into a tie for the lead.

Close to 275 fans saw Central run away with the wrestling and Outstate annex the boxing team championships in the Intramural Tournaments in the Quonset Hut March 1.

Outstate's Tim Nelson and Lupe Joe Arenas assured their team the mitt title by pounding out victories in the Welterweight and Senior Middleweight classes, respectively.

Outstate finished 10 points ahead of Central, its nearest competitor in the mitt tourney. Three Outstaters won championships—Nelson, Arenas and Middleweight N. C. Fitz.

Nelson, only returning champion, successfully defended his title with an impressive TKO in 1:25 of the second round over Bill Burkman, Benson.

Nelson counter-punched to an edge in the first round and then came on strong with hard rights in the second for the win.

Like last year, Nelson was the No. 1 boxer of the tourney, with Fitz a close second.

Joe Arenas surprises

Arenas, basketball and football star, surprised with a convincing three round decision over Gene Grimm of South. Joe's long, booming rights to the head and body were enough to win all three rounds.

Leonard King, 128-pound Negro from Tech, proved to be one of the strongest punchers of the tourney. King clubbed to a TKO win in the third over Don Johnson, Benson.

Johnson, who won Oklahoma (1943) and Pennsylvania University (1945) Intramural championships in a heavier division, couldn't cope with King's strong left hooks and right crosses.

The much-discussed heavy-weight match failed to materialize as Don Harouff, beefy Alpha Sig, won from South's John Cronin by default.

Fitz and Light Heavyweight Bud Abboud won their titles in the second day of the meets, Feb. 27.

Central breezed through the wrestling tournament by taking seven of the eight championships. The Eagles finished with 34 points as compared with the eight compiled by South and Outstate, co-holders of second place.

Ex-state kings plentiful

Larry Geppert of Outstate salvaged a championship in the 128-pound class by pinning Jack Skelley in 4:45. The smooth Geppert employed a body press for the fall.

Jerry Campbell, ex-Central state champ, and Reuben Pierce staged the best match of the afternoon, Campbell finally winning by decision, 4-0. His speed and savvy were too much for the strong Pierce.

In the Heavyweight division, Gene Evans, another former Central state champ, pinned Tom Cannia, South, in 1:16. Evans turned in the best performances of the tourney, which was littered with former high school city and state kings.

Outstate's boxing win and a tie for second in wrestling was good for 7½ points towards the Intramural trophy for the year.

In allotting points towards the trophy, five points were given team champions in both meets. A second was worth three, third two, and fourth one.

Trophy points were awarded as follows: Boxing—Outstate 5, Central 3, Benson and South 1½ each. Wrestling—Central 5, South and Outstate 2½ each, and Tech 1.

In determining the team championship in both meets, five points went to a champion's team and three points for a defeated finalist's club.

Boxing

Featherweight—Len King, 128, Tech, won by TKO over Don Johnson, 127, Benson, in 1:18 of the third round.

Welterweight—Tim Nelson, 147, Outstate, won by TKO over Bill Burkman, 145, Benson.

Sr. Middleweight—Joe Arenas, 187, Outstate, decisioned Gene Grimm, 165, South.

Heavyweight—Don Harouff, Alpha Sigs, won by default.

Wrestling

121-pounds—Harold Irwin, Central, won by default.

128-pounds—Larry Geppert, Outstate, threw Jack Skelley, Central, in 4:46.

135-pounds—Joe Vacanti, Central, threw Tony Brecl, Central, in 1:18.

145-pounds—Art Skolkofski, Central, threw Bruce Riley, Tech, in :54.

155-pounds—Jerry Campbell, Central, decisioned Reuben Pierce, Central, 4-0.

165-pounds—Jack Lacy, Central, decisioned Don Flecky, Tech, 3-0.

175-pounds—Don Gorman, Central, won by default.

Heavyweight—Gene Evans, Central, threw Tom Cannia, South, in 1:16.

New cage coach will have all varsity and Papoose hands back for '48-'49 campaign

Scoring king Slogr just a freshman, like Yambor

It has been a long basketball season, and one last story will put it to bed.

The Indians won seven and lost 13 games this season under retiring Coach Harold Johnk. A six-game losing skein in mid-schedule ruined chances for a .500 season.

The new coach—whoever he might be—will have the complete squad back next year, plus all the boys who campaigned so successfully for Coach Don Pfisterer's Papooses.

The showings of such newcomers as Frank Slogr, scoring king, little Buddy Yambor, Joe Arenas and Don Berg this year gives additional hope for the '49-'49 campaign.

Things looked dark when word reached Omaha of the lacing the Redskins took in their opener at Topeka, Kans. Washburn walloped the Indians by 72-38.

Indians blast Wayne

Omaha fans were a bit skeptical when they went to Tech to take their first gander at the locals. But the Johnkmen conked Wayne, which went on to finish second in the Nebraska College Conference race, 51-42.

Then Washburn butted in again, clipping the Indians, 55-45.

Up to this point, Mike Landman and Rog Sorenson had been leading the Indian point parade.

Slogr, the big freshman center from Central High, hit his stride in the next tussle—against Morningside. Slogr potted 14 points in (Continued on Page 5)

On The Inside

This 'n' that: Coach Don Pfisterer names Joe Cupich as the most improved player of the B squad. "Soup" was top scorer on the team and was no slouch on defense... Bobby McNutt tells us that South's Intramural softball entry will be practically the same team that played in the Greater Omaha League last summer. Central and Benson tied for the OU title last year... Harold Hlad and Jerry Meyers, two mainstays on last year's net crew, looking good in early sessions in the Quonset Hut. There are now some 14 players working out.

A big job that gets little thanks—equipment manager—ably performed by Brooklynite Melvin Tepper... Dick Weekes, one of the better outfielders in the city, has been declared ineligible for play with the baseball team. Pitching hopes took a turn for the worse when Bill Kleine dropped out of school at the end of last semester... Bob Young, Bob McNutt and Jack Seume are getting an early jump on other baseball players, working out at the Legion Club. Bill Pellisero, former Tech High pitcher, and Lettermen Paul Sedgwick and Bill Spellman have been practicing in the Quonset Hut. Incidentally, Pellisero sells silverware after school hours... They call Don Fitch "Social Bug"... Some of the lettermen plan to work on the Fieldhouse construction crew this summer...

Reno Chiesa's turned copper... He's now going to Police Training

School in Omaha... Bill Green tutors the Central High second team basketballers in the evenings... George Brodston, who has played football at Creighton and Iowa, is now attending the university... Lou Clure is undecided on playing baseball with the Indians this year. Lou has a job after school that takes up a good deal of his time.

Omaha U sponsors prep basketball tournament

Omaha University has again sponsored the annual Omaha Regional Class A Basketball Tournament.

The tournament was staged at the City Auditorium last Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. Harold Johnk of the Athletic Department was tournament director. He was assisted by all members of the Athletic Department.

Johnk employed several OU athletes to help him during the tournament—transporting and setting up bleachers, keeping score charts, and doing other odd jobs.

O Club meets tomorrow for election of officers

The Omaha University Letter Men's Club will meet tomorrow at 3 o'clock in the men's locker room.

The meeting will include election of officers.

Faculty sponsors for the club will be discussed and presented. There will be one faculty member from the Athletic Department and one representative from the rest of the faculty.

The constitution has been passed by the Student Council and has only to pass the Faculty Board to become effective.

Eli Legino, acting chairman, will preside over the meeting until the election of officers has been completed.

the 49-44 victory. Slogr was good for 16 points in a 39-37 decision over Nebraska Wesleyan. Slogr's total was the individual high mark for the year. Landman tied it with 16 in the next to last game.

Christmas vacation in Kansas North Dakota came up with a 48-44 victory in the next tiff.

The team spent part of Christmas vacation in Hays, Kans., competing in the Fort Hays State Teachers' Tourney. The host school won its own meet, with the Indians finishing third.

In the opener, OU fell to Fort Hays, 54-45, then came back to smash Missouri Valley of Marshall, Mo., 78-63. It was the highest Indian total of the season.

Western Union took it on the chin, 63-49, at Tech.

Then it started: the six-game losing streak, which began and ended against Simpson.

Sorensen loss hurts

The loss of Rog Sorensen showed all through the streak, especially under the boards. Sorensen, who left after the Western Union game to complete his naval training, was the top defensive rebound man on the squad. And when he departed, a gaping hole was left in the defense.

He was a help on offense, too. In the first nine games, he hit 67 points, which ranked third at the time.

Simpson started the skein, galloped, 74-50. Midland raced, 56-52. Wesleyan slipped by, 53-51. South Dakota State won out, 56-54. Western Union romped, 61-40. And Simpson won again, 66-58.

Coach Harold Johnk's lads pulled out of the ditch with a 63-61 triumph over Midland with a last minute comeback.

Another eleventh-hour rally downed Morningside, 44-42.

Creighton jumped off to a ten-point lead and held it all the way to silence the Indians in the cross-town series, 48-37.

Following the Bluejay tilt, the Indians closed out play under Coach Johnk at Denver against a torrid Regis College quint. The Rangers smacked the Omahas twice, 84-51 and 59-36.

Five students present talk on military training

Members of the Co-operative Club heard five OU students present both sides to universal military training at the Fontenelle Hotel Friday noon.

Frank Heinisch, member of the Board of Regents, introduced student speakers Maurice Schultz, Marjory Mahoney, Wayne Shugart, Eli Legino and Kenneth Rodabaugh. The discussion was presented as a panel.

Visiting journalists view OU audio-visual training

A study of what Nebraska is doing in the way of audio-visual education through its schools brought two visiting journalists to the university Thursday.

The project, financed by the Kellogg Foundation and sponsored by the University of Chicago, is being undertaken by two veteran journalists, Avery Wittenberger, of the Milwaukee Journal staff, and Elaine Waller, roving reporter of the Rural Editorial Service. The RES supplies news and features release to sixty educational journals in the United States and Canada.

Of particular interest to Miss Waller is the Underwood Community High School on which she is preparing a feature. Miss Waller is a graduate of Northwestern's Medill School of Journalism, and Mr. Wittenberger a graduate of Minnesota's School of Journalism.

after today. Benson clung to the No. 2 rung on the strength of a 2-1 series win over Alpha Sigs two weeks ago.

Tech tied Phi Sigs for third position with a three way win over Outstate. Both are only one game out of second.

North moved over to the good side of the .500 mark, winning three from Central.

Dick Hansen of Benson was the only bowler to beat the 200 mark. He rolled 201 against Alpha Sigs.

The top six teams are all above the .500 percentage point. Only Alpha Sigs and Central are below.

Ben Hammond has versatility in acts during convocation

He turns brushes into faces, rabbits into magicians, Hawaii into Mississippi and yellow into green with a twist of the wrist.

Equipped with color crayons, a giant sized tablet, marionettes, ventriloquist dolls and chatty conversation, ambidextrous convocation guest, Ben Hammond, performed on the Auditorium stage for an hour, March 2.

Expressing himself in "the universal language of pictures," his performance was designed to appeal to both students and faculty members.

Standing casually before his easel reciting James Whitcomb Riley's "The Old Swimmin'-Hole," he transformed the poet's word picture into an actual one.

A rag picture of the Hawaiian Islands provided the background for marionette natives dancing to the music of Mr. Hammond's guitar. Mechanism controlling the dolls' actions are housed in the instrument.

He touched his tasseled beret, straightened his long, black, velvet smock and cried, "I've got it too! I've got it too! That NEW look."

From Omaha U, Mr. Hammond will continue on his tour of colleges throughout the midwest.

Sorbonne professor Town, Gown guest

Europe is divided into countries that are "being welled into one mass by the powerful single nation." That was the statement made to Town and Gowners by Dr. Louis Cazamian, professor of English literature at the Sorbonne, University of Paris, at a Thursday dinner meeting in the Faculty Clubroom.

Undernourishment and anxieties of daily life are attributed to the look of wistfulness worn by the European people of today, the professor explained. Disgust and despair are disintegrating factors but the speaker stressed that the deepest evil Europe is suffering today is a spiritual one.

"A thousand persons from the US should be sent abroad, so that they may come to know the world more fully," declared Dr. Cazamian.

"A thousand Europeans should also be sent to the US that they may breathe the air of hopefulness and then return to their homeland as missionaries. They are needed," he added.

People who "close their ears and hearts, and who will not discuss or argue the problems of the world today are the dangerous ones and must be considered as such," Dr. Cazamian concluded.

Unaccustomed as some people are to public speaking, they still do.

Friends service committee to provide collegiate work

Variety of summer jobs offered to 800 students

Here's an opportunity for college students to travel, rebuild, earn and learn this summer.

The American Friends Service Committee will sponsor more than 60 summer service projects with places for approximately 800 college students.

Those projects range in type from rebuilding war-devastated communities in Europe to studying cooperatives in St. Paul, Minn. And the projects will be carried on in every section of the United States and in Mexico, Europe and Nova Scotia.

For instance, students might be assigned to a group rebuilding a fire-gutted Maine community; to a crew building a hostel for American Indians in Tuba City, Ariz., or to units building community centers in towns in the southern highlands and southeast Missouri.

Chance to visit Europe

If you want to travel more, then a job with a Quaker International Voluntary Service team would be more to your liking.

Those teams will help reconstruct homes and community buildings in Austria, Hungary, Italy, Poland and the American zone of Germany.

And European organizations will sponsor similar camps in Finland, Belgium, Holland, France, England, Switzerland and Germany.

More details of each project can be obtained by writing for the brochure, "They Volunteer Their Service," to the Office of the College Program, American Friends Service Committee, 20 South 12 Street, Philadelphia 7, Pa.

A copy of the brochure is on the bulletin board in the Gateway City Office, Room 304.
